Convention Information to Delegates and National and Area Officers

March 16, 2020

Dear Sisters:

I am writing to share the latest information I have about the 2020 National Convention. Over the past several days, my priority has been ensuring the well-being of our collegiate members. As you may know, most university campuses around the country have closed which necessitated providing a great deal of support to our local house corporations to assist them with logistics and help our international students and any other members unable to go home.

With the more immediate needs of our members met, including creating a special resource page on our website (<https://www.phimu.org/covid-19-updates/>), I am now able to address convention. We have suspended convention registration until further notice, although I truly hope that we are all able to return to a sense of normalcy and that convention will take place as planned. At this time, I want all of you to focus on taking care of yourself, your loved ones, and carefully navigating this health crisis.

For those of you who have already registered: if convention is cancelled, we will refund your money. If you have any questions, please email convention@phimu.org.

I hope you stay healthy and I still look forward to celebrating the magic of sisterhood with you in July.

Love in Our Bond,
Darlene
